Where Our Sugar Comes From, Gives Wallace Trouble

It's Battle Between Cuba, Puerto Rico, Philippines, Hawaii

SUGAR FROM BEETS

That's American End of Business—Liberty to Cost Philippines

By PRESTON GROVER

Associated Press Correspondent
WASHINGTON—Rex Tugwell stepped from his seat in the House today and said that he still left Secretary Wallace holding the sweetest quotas among domestic and island producers.

Legally congress has the big voice in this but when a technical job arises of calculating whether Hawaii, Cuba or Florida will get an increased share of the market, the task falls usually on the administrative end. In case of sugar, that is Secretary Wallace. He inaugurated the quota system in the first place as part of AAA. It is one part of the New Deal surviving almost intact.

Big Sweet Tooth

America eats 6,500,000 tons roughly a half billion dollars worth of sugar annually. That is about a 100-pound bag apiece for the population, and since babies get less, adults take more. On present quotas, Cuba has the lion's share—2,000,000 tons. Other sharers are: United States beet sugar producers, 1,550,000 tons, Louisiana and

The meeting will be held at Hotel Marion, Little Rock.

Perry invited representatives from the following cities: Little Rock, North Little Rock, Pine Bluff, Fort Smith, Hot Springs, El Dorado, Camden, Hope, Blytheville, Jonesboro, Russellville, Clarksville and Fordyce.

(Foy Hammons told the Star Thursday he would attend the meeting representing Hope.)

Another "Suicide" Schedule

HOPE, Ark.—Either Nashville or Clarksville High School will open the 1937 football season with the Hot Springs Trojans, Coach Mervin Perry announced Wednesday when he made public next fall's schedule: The Blytheville Clowns, undefeated the past two seasons by Arkansas teams, probably will be included also, Perry said.

The schedule, subject to change, follows: September 27—Nashville or Clarksville; September 24—Jonesboro, there; October 1—Georgia Military Acad.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—These new model automobiles everybody's looking over have about everything desirable in them except first-aid kits and hospital wards, but one of the most sensible features are the non-glare headlights on some of them, so if the legislatures don't act pretty soon it looks like it won't be necessary. The new cars are so comfortable the railroads are getting nervous again and putting more padding in their parlor car seats and are about to change the rules so men passengers will have equal rights with women when it comes to smoking. ## —What You Should Know About— NEW SOCIAL SECURITY LAW

11 Does Chance of Jobs Affect Federal Old-Age Benefits?

A WORKER does not lose any of his credits toward Federal Old-Age Benefits if he changes his job from a covered employment to one which is not covered by the benefits plan.

Nor will he lose any credits by shifting from one covered employment to another. He can hold a job wherever he pleases, and for as long a period as he desires.

As he goes from one job to another, his credits toward his benefit continue to accumulate and will be credited to his account.

Old-age benefits are paid on one basis only. That basis is the total amount of wages up to $3000 a year which the worker has received from any one employer during all the time he has worked in occupations covered by the act.

Computation of wages begins with the year 1937. If the worker is employed in five different years after January 1, 1937, if his total wages for this employment amount to more than $2000, and if he retires at the age of 65, he is eligible for monthly old-age benefits, regardless of where he worked, or in how many places he worked.

NEXT: When do the regular monthly old-age retirement benefit payments begin and how may a person qualify.

Prescott Hearing Given 3 on Charges of Kidnaping, Rape

Albert Dye, Otis Crane and Sherman Wilson Arraigned Thursday

SEIZED AT GURDON

Charges Brought by Parents of 3 Girls Aged From 13 to 20

Kidnaping charges against Albert Dye and Otis Crane of Hempstead county were dismissed when the two men appeared before Justice J. C. Crow at Prescott Thursday afternoon. Sheriff A. C. Ober of Nevada county told The Star at 3:15 p. m.

A charge of rape against Sherman Wilson of Emmet was reduced to carnal abuse and his case was transferred to Hempstead county for a hearing possibly next Monday.

It developed at the Prescott hearing that the alleged assault on a 13-year-old Prescott girl occurred in Hempstead county.

It was also established that Wilson is a resident of Hempstead county instead of a resident of Nevada, the accused man living just over the border line.

Sheriff Ober told The Star that he was turning the case over to Sheriff Jim Bearden.

Two Hempstead county men and one from Nevada county were to be given preliminary hearings at 2 p. m. Thursday before Justice J. C. Crow at Prescott on charges of kidnaping and rape.

Sheriff A. C. Ober of Nevada county told The Star that Sherman Wilson of near Emmet had been charged with rape, and that Albert Dye of Blytheville and Otis Crane of Hempstead county, were held on charges of kidnaping.

All three men were arrested at a tourist camp near Gurdon Monday night. Dye and Crane made bond and were released. Wilson has been held in jail since his arrest.

The three men are alleged to have gone to the homes of three girls living north of Prescott Sunday night ostensibly to escort them to church.

When the girls, ranging in age from 13 to 20, failed to return home Sunday night their parents became alarmed and asked the aid of Nevada county officers.

Deputy Sheriffs Ward and Allen started a search which led to a tourist cabin near Gurdon. The men and the missing girls were located there, Sheriff Ober said.

The men were arrested. The girls were returned to their parents.

An alleged rape on the 13-year-old girl is said by officers to have been committed by Wilson.

Sheriff Ober said there were conflicting stories as to an alleged drinking party at the Gurdon tourist camp.

Bill Bourne of Emmet, N. M., won the world's first "cuyote-doggin" championship, pitting his coyote to the ground by hand after a 22-minute auto chase.

LITTLE ROCK — (AP) — Members of Governor Futrell's family disclosed Thursday that he was struck down by an automobile and painfully injured on a downtown street late Wednesday.

King Wins First Round—But It's Abdication If He Loses

Edward Retires to Castle With Mrs. Simpson and Duke of York

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—King Edward of England won in the first show of strength Thursday in his all-critical fight with Britain's government to keep his throne and his American friend, Wallis Simpson.

Defiant, yet with this empire's fate close at heart, England's sovereign insisted stubbornly on his right to a private life.

He'll Keep Both!

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—King Edward has made up his mind to keep both his throne and his friendship for Mrs. Wallis Simpson, one of the highest sources in the kingdom told the Associated Press Thursday.

In his guarded Fort Belvedere, retreat with both Mrs. Simpson and his brother, the heir-presumptive Duke of York, the bachelor head of the House of Windsor let it be known that he will never surrender to Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin.

He will fight to the finish on the constitutional issue which has been raised against him by his ministers' insistence that he renounce his twice-divorced American friend.

"If he loses it might even mean abdication."

King Is Angry

NEW YORK — (AP)—The New York Times, in a London dispatch Wednesday night, says that conflict between King Edward and his cabinet has resulted in a crisis "involving the possible abdication of the king Thursday."

It also reports rumors that Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson would leave the country Thursday and that the king might go with her.

Crisis Astonishes Nation
"Upon the utterly astounded country there has burst a constitutional crisis," the Times said, "involving the possible abdication of the king and succession of the Duke of York to the throne. The crisis is no longer hidden; the conflict between the king and his ministers has blazed into open flame."

"The cabinet is determined that marriage of the sovereign is not a private matter but a public and imperial concern. The king is said to feel the cabinet has no constitutional right to dictate his private life, no matter how closely he must follow his minister's advice in public affairs."

"Between the two there is no yielding."

Captured Pawns in Spaniards' War Game

Some soldiers die in battle. Some fight and run away. Many live to engage the enemy again and again. Others suffer the ignominy of being made prisoners of war. This exclusive new picture shows what Spanish rebels do with the men they capture. Huddled against the road embankment in the foreground are slain loyalists. Above, their captured comrades are forced to dig graves for the dead.

The war's over for these Spaniards. Guarded by a Moor of the rebel forces, the captured loyalists are lashed to each other by ropes looped around their wrists. They'll labor behind the rebel lines for their foes of a few hours before.

Today's Picture Story

Not all prisoners of war are given an opportunity to live for the day when peace will be restored to Spain. Too often, as shown here, a firing squad and a convenient tree in an isolated spot end the captured man's plight. The youth who stands so defiantly with white hood drawn over his eyes awaiting the end was captured in Madrid and convicted of being a rebel spy.

To Prevent Common Colds Avoid Drafts and Dampness

By DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

Rhinitis is a name given to the condition of a running nose or an inflammation of the nose. It begins with a burning and prickling sensation, sometimes with much sneezing, and proceeds to the common symptoms that everyone recognizes.

Many kinds of germs have been blamed as the cause of the running nose, or common cold; but not one of them has been identified as the only cause of this condition.

Experts are beginning to believe that many different germs may be involved in various cases. In addition to germs, there are also what we called predisposing causes.

Sitting in a draft, wearing too much or too little clothing, being exposed to cold, getting the feet wet, working or worrying excessively, eating improper or too much food have been mentioned as possibly being associated with the easy catching of cold.

Experts recognize three stages as common in the development of a cold. The first is what is called the dry stage, marked by a dryness in the nose, with some burning and discomfort. Occasionally, also, there is headache, tiredness, itching of the body, and in very severe cases, the beginning of a fever.

The second stage is called the watery stage, in which the nose swells and becomes obstructed so that breathing is difficult. There is tingling and itching and, as a result, much sneezing.

Just about this time a thin, watery fluid will begin to run from the nose. So much, sometimes, as to require the use of innumerable handkerchiefs. In some instances, this may cause the

Persistent Irritations Are Soil in Which Bad Temper Thrives

I like to talk about temper. It is the most interesting subject in all psychology. It is the devil's way to get his revenge on humanity. He picks, nearly always, the inferiority folk for his pawns.

Who doesn't love to get mad? I never feel quite so brave as when I am in a rage and can tell people exactly what I think of them. At other times I am afraid. I go for months thinking this and that, and then when outraged and suddenly furious. I find the flood rushing to my head with that lovely "don't-give-a-damn" feeling, and I go and tear things up right. Oh, how grand it is, not to be afraid!

Sulks Cling to Their Joy
And if I am this way, the most gentle of souls, I assure you, eating out of anybody's hand, you must be this way too. I am not sparing a soul today. In truth every mother's son of us, and daughter too, just loves to get mad. It is far more fun than laughing. Or even eating. It is an orgy demanded by the suppressions, and they have to get out or else we'd go mad. So we think.

And therefore, my brethren, and sisters, we need to think about Tommy's temper, or Lucy's sulks. Yes, sometimes the possessor of a good sound rage, prefers to wallow in her feelings, and keep her joy for a day or a week, instead of letting it go all at once. She loves to make others suffer or worry about her as long as she can. Give me the active volcano every time, rather than the brooding one that keeps everybody jumpy and never announces which way its lava may run.

But neither are easy to live with. Any kind of "temperamental" people can spoil the peace of mind of others, whether they nurse a chronic grouch

Hal Roach, "Our Gang" Chieftain, to Try His Hand at Muscomedies

HOLLYWOOD—Hal Roach, identified in the minds of most fans as the maker of Our Gang comedies, got to looking over his contract last the other day and decided that with Laurel and Hardy, Patsy Kelly, Lyda Roberti,

Jack Haley, and some other adults on his payroll, he ought to be making musical comedies. And so he will—six big musical features a year. He always has been an opportunist. But he might have gone the way of (English Cartoonist Suggests We Scrap the Old U.S. Character)

MacK Sennett had not Mrs. Roach since 16 years ago, frequently called him at the office to tell of some funny or clever thing that their small son, Hal, Jr., had done.

Roach was a typically proud papa. He figured that he could sell pictures based on the antics of kids. The hunch made him a millionaire.

At 17, Roach left his home in Elmira, N. Y., where he was born on January 1, 1892, and went to Alaska. There he discovered there was money to be made outside the gold fields, so he hauled mail.

Pretty soon he was supervisor for a trucking company operating in the California oil fields. Hollywood looked promising, so he got acquainted with the movie business as an extra, then as a cowboy for Universal at $25 a week.

Teamed With Lloyd
He and another minor player—Harold Lloyd—pooled their savings and made a one-reel picture which sold for $850. That established them as producers. Lloyd did most of the acting, though, and finally Roach settled into his executive job with no more appearances before the cameras.

Their series of Lonesome Luke comedies was their first real triumph, but Lloyd began making his own pictures, and Roach was dallying with undistinguished slapstick when he got the hunch to make pictures with kids.

"Our Gang" was organized in 1921 and is the oldest single unit in the film industry. Of course new members of the company have been hired, and others dropped.

In all, 35 youngsters have been under contract and there have been four leading men, including the current Spanky McFarland, Jackie Cooper, Johnny Downs, and Dickie Moore were the others, and they're still in pictures.

Of the original gang, Mary Kornman has grown up and married a cameraman; Mickey Daniels is still in pictures; Jackie Condon is attending high school; Sunshine Sammy (colored) is leading an orchestra.

About 150 one and two-reel pictures have been made. Some have cost up to $25,000 each and have grossed nearly $400,000. Production is slow because the kids have to be sent to school on

HALF-ACRE in EDEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MARCIA CANFIELD, daughter of wealthy PHILIP CANFIELD, meets BRUCE McDUGALL, artist, shortly after the mysterious disappearance of FRANK KEN. DICKSON whom Marcia had been engaged to. When her father had been found in Kennedy's business accounts, Marcia is more shocked than heartbroken. She realizes she was never in love with him.

McDougall is attentive until DOROTHY OSBORN, who dislikes Marcia, tells him to believe Marcia is engaged to another man.

There is a bank holdup and no one communicates the Canfield car to follow the holdup. The car is wrecked and both Marcia and her father are injured.

McDougall, driving with Dorothy Osborn and her mother, comes upon the scene. He takes Marcia and her father to a hospital.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XX

PATIENT Frank Osborn, who in fifty-odd years had accomplished only the holding of a mediocre job, the maintenance of a modest home and the rearing to rebellious womanhood of one child—oh, yes! and had, in spite of his failings, somehow managed to earn and keep the thorough devotion of Mrs. Osborn, to whom he was equally devoted—this Frank Osborn apprehensively watched the contents of a collection of pots on the stove and a roasting pan in the oven.

Mr. Osborn was not a cook—he earned his living as a bookkeeper—but a bookkeeper who at fifty-odd has never provided his wife with a servant must, for his failure, have learned during the years to be helpful in all the household duties. And tonight Mr. Osborn had been left with the responsibility for keeping dinner just this side of done, pending the return of Mrs. Osborn and Dorothy and a guest—a man guest.

He wished they'd hurry; to his time-accustomed, yet still impatient eye, dinner appeared ready to serve, and he didn't want to be blamed for any mishaps. They had left—Dorothy and her mother—almost an hour ago, and the trip should not have taken more than 30 minutes.

He heard the car crunch through the snow in the driveway. A moment later the back door opened. Dorothy and Mrs. Osborn came in. Funny, bringing a guest in the back way.

But there was no guest.

"There's been the most awful accident!" Mrs. Osborn said, going to the stove at once, despite the news she had to tell.

"Something happen to young Mr.?" her husband began.

"Mr. McDougall? No, he's all right. My land, you can't imagine! Bank robberies, wrecks, police in a commandeered car—I guess I'll never be the same again. Here, wait till I get my things off and we'll tell you all about it at dinner. Frank, you let that roast get a mite overdone—$2.40 worth of meat there, not a cent less. But, goodness, we were gone lots longer than we thought we'd be. You did all right. You should have seen—Here, Dorothy, you can sit right down to dinner."

"I can't eat, Mother," Dorothy replied from the stairs.

DOROTHY did not turn on the light, but sat on her bed and looked out a window at the night, at the pools which the street lamps made on the snow. No dinner party!

It was a bit hard to take—though tragedy and pain had crossed her path this evening, this was still a bit hard to take. She had no love for Marcia Canfield, yet the memory of the wrecked car and its still passengers, the memory of that awful ride to the hospital, had awakened in her a quick rush of sympathy for the hurt.

Dorothy remembered turning her car in at the hospital gate and stopping at the receiving ward door; she remembered McDougall climbing slowly out, with Marcia in his arms. She remembered his face as he had gone quickly in, and how he had watched as the doctors and nurses took over his burden.

Dorothy knew that all but Marcia had been erased from his mind. Well—"I know now how you feel, my dear Mr. McDougall," she said softly. "After all, I was only exercising woman's right to hunt. I'm not in love with you, but you're very eligible, and I might have learned. It would have been very nice for Bobbs Neck to see you attending me, but as for my being in love, Mr. McDougall, that is a very secret secret, for me alone."

BRUCE McDUGALL walked home alone, at an hour he did not know nor think of determine, and arriving, threw off his overcoat and wandered about the rooms. Miss Sellers and her mother were away; he was glad he'd not have to talk about tonight's business. He had had to talk enough, as it was, with the policeman who had called at the hospital to add threads of information about the robbery and chase to the pattern being assembled at headquarters.

He had learned, also, of Carlo Stellicci's death, but had not been long enough in Bobbs Neck to know of the man, nor to realize Tony Stellicci's relationship. On his way home McDougall had, in fact, passed Tony and given him a nod, without knowing that the youth was returning to his own home from the police station, bearing a crushing mental burden.

McDougall sat at his drawing board and sharpened pencils mechanically, to pass the time. His thoughts were on a hospital room, and the urge to know what was passing there became too great to resist.

He rose and called the hospital. Miss Canfield? The doctors thought she was doing all right. Was she conscious yet? Why—a pause—the doctors thought she was doing all right. Despairing of getting more than a stereotyped, noncommittal reply, McDougall replaced the receiver, and half an hour later called again. Miss Canfield was progressing well. Later, Miss Canfield was doing well.

McDUGALL fell asleep in a chair. He awakened at 4 o'clock, called again, got the same reply.

He realized he was hungry. It was only a few minutes' walk to the Dog Wagon; he'd go over for a sandwich. Suddenly he remembered he had not had dinner, and then that he had, in fact, walked out on his engagement with Dorothy Osborn!

Resolutely, he thrust the humiliating, the irritating matter aside and went out into the night, strode toward Main Street.

He had not cashed a check at the bank, but he had enough silver for a sandwich and pie and coffee, and for cigars. Tony Stellicci was on duty at the restaurant, and the two or three other customers, aware of Carlo's relationship and of the past evening's news, were, therefore, refraining from any reference to the robbery. McDougall, silent and alone at the end of the counter, equally unwilling to discuss the affair, did not notice that the village gossip, common in conversation here, had been further afield.

Before noon he called Dorothy, awkwardly apologetic, expecting a cold, perhaps indignant, reception. But she was charmingly understanding, and all the phrases he had tried to invent did not require saying. It had occurred to him, anticipating the talk, to ask her for a date and to arrange some extraordinary entertainment, to make amends for what he had done. Somehow he received, as if the telephone were a sympathetic, understanding instrument, the vague idea that his apology was, for the time, all that should be offered. It was mystifying, but he had the conviction that he could only let matters rest. Women, after all, were funny!

Italian Aid for Hungary Is Issue

Mussolini Aims to Restore Fiume as Hungary's Only Seaport

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Mussolini unleashed another warword from his well stocked kennels when he indicated support of Hungarian rearmament and some revision of the territorial clauses of the World War treaty of the Trianon under which that country lost huge areas to the victorious allies.

Most of these lands went to neighboring Rumania, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia, the latter a brand-new republic created out of domains wrested from the Central Powers. These three, comprising the French-fostered Little Entente, long have signified their determination to fight if necessary to preserve their boundaries.

Hitler Points Way
The present delicate situation is rendered more difficult by the fact that Hungary's ambitions are premised on the volcanic precedent set by Adolf Hitler in connection with the treaty of Versailles.

The Nazi leader has thrown overboard virtually every commitment in that treaty, excepting territorial terms, and has been successful in thrusting this strong medicine down the throats of the violently opposing allies. He also has made it clear in no uncertain terms that he is out for a return of German territories, and there have been indications of a weakening of the Allies on this point also.

Before the war Hungary was a maritime, major country, covering some 125,000 square miles. The Treaty of the Trianon reduced her to a minor power, landlocked and possessing only about 35,000 square miles of territory.

Entente Holds Minorities
In these transfers she lost 3,000,000 Magyars—ancient ones which established the throne. Rumania got 1,500,000 of these unwilling people; Czechoslovakia, 1,000,000, and Yugoslavia, 500,000. What the attitude of these Magyars would be toward their foster-countries in the event of war is a matter of much importance.

Among the territorial concessions, Czechoslovakia got the region of Slovakia on the southern slope of the Carpathians, and sub-Carpathian Ru-

A Book a Day

By Bruce Catton

Is Prison to Punish, Warn, or Reform?

What is a prison for? Is it supposed to punish people who have erred, to provide an effective warning for those who have not erred, but might; or to redeem sinners and fit them for useful places in society?

The argument over these questions is old and bitter. Sanford Bates, U. S. director of prisons, discusses the problem intelligently, from the depths of a rich experience, in "Prisons and Beyond" (Macmillan: $3.50).

Mr. Bates sees no reason why a prison should not be at the things mentioned in the first paragraph. At present, he says, our prison system falls short in almost every respect.

It is all that reformers have said it is. But he can foresee a day in which society can do an infinitely better job of protecting itself, can do it more humanely, and can refit most of its criminals for law-abiding careers.

"Can we," he asks, "improve our prisons and yet deter the potential criminal? I believe we can."

"While our new system is to be built around the concept that all prisoners must be returned to society, and that society is not protected unless they are returned more efficient, more honest, and less criminal than when they went in... such punishment need not lose its deterrent value."

Mr. Bates writes feelingly about the importance of parole and probation systems, and those who complain that the parole system has broken down are urged to read his book and learn their mistake.

Altogether, he provides a sane and progressive discussion of the prison problem and gives an outline of the reforms which could make the system more effective in every way.

Dodges Mamas
For a while Roach encountered opposition from people who thought he was exploiting children. The watchword in Hollywood was "Hide the kids." Roach sends a good deal of his time hiding from mothers of talented children.

Some of them are always camping in the studio reception room, or waiting in front and hoping their charges will be noticed by the producer. They're always disappointed.

Roach requires that photographs be submitted, and from these he selects a few aspirants for interviews. He receives about 500 pictures a week.

Shirley an Extra
Shirley Temple's mother sent some pictures once, and Shirley was given extra work in couple of films. Roach still kicks himself whenever he recalls the opportunity he neglected.

The studio has less trouble than you'd expect with ambitious mothers. Parents are permitted on the sets, of course, but there is a rigid rule that they must keep hands off; that every child must be treated alike, and that none may be spoiled or spanked.

Tout Sportsman
One of the very few Irish producers, Roach is stocky and looks hard-boiled. But he really likes children, and has a way with them. He also likes polo, and has a three-goal rating.

The Flaming Fall Revue

O'er mountain, streamlet, hill and dale
"Wake up, wake up," the breezes
Come a glad and welcome cry;
Wafted on the morning breeze, heralded to the sky.
"Wake up, wake up," the breezes say, Touching each flower covered with dew.
"The Ozarks, the ozarks are passing this way.
In their Flaming Fall Revue."

The trees stand straight as soldiers,
With arms outstretched to the sun.
Dressed in their bright, new ensembles

To join in the Holiday fun.
Each shrub, each bush on mountainside,
Is decked in garlands gay;
For the "Ozark's Flaming Fall Revue" is passing along this way.

The autumn flowers in field and dell
Are smiling in colors bright;
They stand in their places like sentinels

Guarding this beautiful sight.
The curtains for each changing scene
Is the gauzy, smoky haze,
Filling every nook and cranny
Throughout the dreamy days.

The sun-kissed streams are mirrors
That reflect this passing show;
Leaf-strewn, their banks curve softly
Like an archer's graceful bow.
There's beauty, there's romance everywhere,
It glows in each vivid hue;
The breezes cry, "To the Ozarks let's hie,
For the Flaming Fall Revue."

—Mrs. Hugh Smith

The above poem from the pen of our own Mrs. Hugh Smith was read by Mrs. Lawrence Martin on Wednesday afternoon at the regular bi-weekly meeting of the Bay View Reading club, with Dr. Etta Champin and Miss Mamie Twichell as hostesses.
The meeting was held in the sub room of the Chumplin home on South Elm Street and the glow of the outside was dispelled by the lovely flower arrangement and the warm cheer of this hospitable home. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. E. E.
White and followed a short business period. Mrs. Hugh Smith was introduced as leader for the afternoon's study, which was presented in a most interesting travalgue, written by Mrs.
Smith, who opened her program with the history and situation of the Northwest counties of Arkansas, the counties of Benton, Carroll, Boone and Yell, followed by a most beautiful tableau and stage setting, with Miss Maggie Bell in costume, portraying the pioneer woman seated at an old fashioned spinning wheel, just behind the wheel stood Mrs. Fred Harrison, in period costume and seated at the left of Mrs. Harrison were Mrs. Steve Carrigan Jr., Mrs. Hugh Jones and Mrs.
R. M. Brint. Mrs. Lawrence Martin opened the program by reading the poem, "The Land of a Million Smiles" from the pen of Mrs. Smith. Miss Bell demonstrated her prowess at the spinning wheel and gave a short talk on pioneer days followed by the vocal selection "The Old Spinning Wheel," by Mrs. Harrison. Mrs. Carrigan told of the pioneers and modern builders of this section of the state. Mrs. Hugh Jones discussed the scenery, resorts and playgrounds, followed by Mrs. R.
M. Brint, who told of the prospects and industries of this particular section, illustrating her remarks with samples, that would have made even California set up and take notice. The program closed with Mrs. Martin reading the above poem. The entire script for this unusually interesting and informative study was written by Mrs. Hugh Smith, and it is not the first time Mrs. Smith has demonstrated her ability as one of the most valued members of the club. Following the program, the hostesses served a very delicious and colorful dessert plate with hot tea, each plate carrying a very attractive Christmas card of good wishes and cheer. Mrs. W. G.

Allison will be the hostess at the next meeting, on January 6, 1937, at which time, Section 6, continuing in the northern and central counties of the state discussion, with Mrs. Hugh Jones leader.

King Will Fight

and that the king received it in trun-cated fashion.
"With the press and Parliament, the church and the cabinet against him, he refused to budge. If he persists, the impression is that the cabinet will not hesitate to force a decree of abdication upon him."

Mrs. Simpson to Leave

"Best founded" of rumors tonight, the Times continued, was a statement that Mrs. Simpson, the king's American friend, would leave the country Thursday and "there is a possibility the king will go with her. And, incredible as it may sound, nobody outside the place and 10 Downing street knows whether he will go as king or as royal exile."

One of King Edward's circle of personal friends is Mrs. Ernest Simpson, lady of American birth who has been twice married, the paper said.
"It is believed that it is the king's desire to marry her in due course."

The paper said that the king could marry Mrs. Simpson, American-born divorcee, without endangering the throne or embroiling Parliament on the constitutional issue.

"If the king, who is of age and knows his own mind, is sufficiently in love to persist in his intention, the public would, we think, wish that he should marry the woman of his choice
—but that he should do so in his capacity as Duke of Cornwall (one of Edward's titles)."

"His wife's position would then be that of king's consort, not that of a Queen of England. For such an arrangement, there is the precedent of Queen Victoria and the prince consort (Albert); and if necessary, Parliament should pass requisite legislation to make this arrangement possible."

The paper said the issue raised by the Simpson controversy was a matter whether "this lady is a suitable person to be queen of England and whether this is a matter to be decided by the king himself, or by the government as the mouthpiece of public opinion."

BOTH These Women Can't Be Mrs. Wallis Simpson!

There's only one Mrs. Wallis Simpson, and she is in England, the center of world-wide attention because of her friendship with King Edward VIII. But in Pampa, Tex., residents see a striking resemblance between Mrs. Simpson and Mrs. Toy Johnson, a Pampa hardware dealer's wife. The two women are pictured above. Now that you have made your guess as to which is which, we'll tell you—Mrs. Simpson is on the left and Mrs. Johnson is on the right.

Where Our Sugar

Florida cane sugar producers: 250,000 tons. Puerto Rico 801,297, Philippine Islands 998,110, Hawaii 941,199.

There is a persistent jockeying for a larger share of the market and already lobbies for some producers have reached Washington to work on the coming congress and to treat with Wallace, while others are operating on a new plan—advertising.

It ought to give Uncle Sam a very puffy feeling about the chest to have so many island groups clamoring for recognition as part of the American system. Independent Cuba pleads in a handsome booklet widely circulated that it is "an integral part of the American Economic Union." Hawaii, emphasizing a year-long sugar adjustment schedule, points to its territorial status as grounds for a larger allowance. The Philippines, not altogether happily becoming independent, insist that until the American flag finally is hauled down nine years hence these islands should escape the sugar tariff entirely instead of only on part of its quota.

Puerto Rico argues for a larger cut and occasionally certain factions loose a blast at Senator Tydings for introducing a bill last session which would have authorized the island to vote on independence. Domestic producers insist that for prosperity and preparedness reasons they should be allowed to produce all they can.

He's a Sugar Daddy

Island production costs less so the tariff and quota restrictions are essential to the life of the domestic producers. Thus domestic producers are at the mercy of government tariff and quota control. Since the American sugar eater provides by far the best market, the island producers likewise are at the mercy of quota and tariff regulations.

That situation is what supports the quota system.
So, Wallace, no molasses baron, remains the nation's sugar daddy.

"Ladies in Love" at the Saenger

Janet Gaynor, Loretta Young, Connie Bennett, Simone Simon

Two Hollywood precedents of long-standing went by the boards when production began on "Ladies in Love," showing Thursday and Friday at the Saenger.

In the first place, Darryl F. Zanuck selected four of the most famous feminine personalities in Hollywood to play equal roles in the production.

The best way to point out this master stroke of casting is to say that the ladies are Janet Gaynor, Loretta Young, Connie Bennett and Simone Simon—neither of whom has ever shared picture honors with another.

Second "unusual" phenomenon was the manner in which leading men were assigned to these potent stars. Zanuck, with another stroke of inspiration, allowed each of the "ladies in love" to select her own leading man.

Miss Gaynor, requiring two in the script, chose Don Ameche and Alan Mowbray. Miss Bennett selected Paul Lukas, and Loretta Young picked Tyrone Power, Jr., while Simone Simon was content to try and win Paul Lukas away from Miss Bennett.

L. S. U. Record Is Great Tribute to Moore's Ability

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service
NEW YORK—Despite the fact that even the best coaches and critics agree that the two football teams that played most consistently up to the very limit of their ability in 1936 were Yale and Minnesota.

Those best acquainted with the situation at Yale say that seldom in football history has a club duplicated the Yale record when the material with which it was done is taken into consideration. The Blue has been termed fortunate, but an analysis shows that few of its touchdowns were made in a lucky manner.

The secret of Yale's success was team morale, which was built by two outstanding leaders and personalities, Larry Kelley and Clinton Frank. They were spark plugs in every sense of the word, besides being players of extraordinary ability.

Yale's achievements of 1936 reflect very favorably on the coaches, Ducky Pond and Greasy Neale.

Consistency is the real test of a great team and that is the reason Minnesota still generally is recognized as the nation's No. 1 team. The wonder of it is how Bernie Bierman kept the Giants of the North keyed up as long as he did.

Lynn Waldorf turned in a remarkable job with what he had at Northwestern. Frank Thomas and his star back, Joe Riley, kept a collection of Alabama sophomores going. Maj. Bob Neyland brought Tennessee back like a six-day bike rider.

First-Year Coaches Click

Buck Shaw performed wonders with an inexperienced Santa Clara squad, and Red Dawson made Tulane a power when the job was expected to take two or three years. Both are first-year coaches.

Ranking Minnesota at the top well may be disputed by followers of Louisiana State.

As Morgan Blake of Atlanta points out, the story of the success of L. S. U. is, in the main, the story of about 25 great football players on one squad. It was a team that could substitute at any time in the backfield and in the line without apparently lessening in the slightest degree the power, versatility, and pressure.

Blake makes only one exception. That is in the case of the success of L. S. U. is, in the main, the story of about 25 great football players on one squad. It was a team that could substitute at any time in the backfield and in the line without apparently lessening in the slightest degree the power, versatility, and pressure.

"Stop," says Blake. "Make it the nation. Tinsley is the perfect player. With his physical aspects of speed and strength, he is as smart and cagey as Jerry Dalrymple, the old Tulane captain and All-American end."

As to the other L. S. U. players they all maintained such a high standard of excellence that it is difficult to pick any as superior to the others. Perhaps risk, guard, was the star from tackle to tackle.

L. S. U. employed but little razzle-dazzle and deception in its attack.

Moore Stuns on Own Feet

The Tigers' running attack was based on fine blocking and sheer power. In other words, when the boys of the bayous started a play off left tackle, it was 99 times out of 100 a play off left tackle. When a reverse started, a reverse it was. There was nothing bewildering about L. S. U.'s passing attack, but it usually rang the bell.

Louisiana State was coached by Bernie Moore, who succeeded Maj. Bliff Jones after that famous mentor had his argument with the late Huey Long. Moore this season took his place among the more famous coaches for the first time. He must have something to do what he did with Louisiana State—even when you take the fine Tiger material into consideration.

With all the bowls seeking attractions, it really is too bad that Louisiana State can't be matched with Minnesota. There is one that really would bowl 'em over.

Four Pigskin Pilots Sure of Job in '37

Lowell (Red) Dawson

Major Bob Neyland

Raymond (Ducky) Pond

Due to the preponderance of football upsets this year, a lot of gridiron coaches are going to be looking for new jobs, due to an unsuccessful season—but these four won't. They turned in seasons among the best in the nation—Lowell (Red) Dawson, left, giving Tulane a fine club in his first year as head man; Maj. Bob Neyland, upper left, bringing on Tennessee with a rush after returning to that school from army duty this year; Raymond (Ducky) Pond, upper right, giving Yale the championship Big Three team, and Buck Shaw, right, turning out an undefeated and untied squad in his first year at Santa Clara.

Showdown Is Near on Rose Bowl Team

Officials Promise Name of Washington's Foe in 24 Hours

PASADENA, Calif.—(AP)—Rose Bowl officials promised Wednesday to announce within 24 hours the name of University of Washington's opponent for the New Year's day football classic.

Newly arrived athletic heads of Washington and tournament of roses officials went into an executive huddle Wednesday came out a little drawn but smiling, and promptly went into another huddle.

Athletic Director Ray Eckmann of Washington called time out during one session, and mopping his brow laboriously, declared:

"I hope to complete negotiations which we have been working on and have the entire matter cleaned up in the morning. I can assure you that nothing will be done or announced before Thursday."

The affable Eckmann, adroitly sidestepping questioners declined to be in a discussion as to whether his negotiations were being conducted in the east or south.

"I won't say," he declared, "and any rumors you hear about this team or that team being the choice—well, they're just rumors. Whew, I've never bumped into so many rumors since this business started. It's the old army game."

"Army? Is Army being considered? We thought it was the Navy," a questioner interjected.

Eckmann smiled and repeated that the secret would not be divulged until Thursday. Then he went into another huddle with the tournament people in the next room, and the game went on—behind closed doors.

Meanwhile, just to refresh the records, Pittsburgh, Alabama, Louisiana State, Dartmouth and a few others are the outstanding guesses to get the bid.

60 Dogs Entered in Field Trials

Annual Arkansas Field Trials to Start at Roe Thursday

ROE, Ark.—(AP)—A fast field of approximately 60 dogs headed by Chimes Mississippi Jack, 1935 open all-age winner, will start out early Thursday over the Roe state game preserve in the annual Arkansas field trials.

Ben M. Hogan, Little Rock, secretary of the Arkansas Field Trials Association, said unfavorable weather dampened hopes of a record breaking entry list although he asserted the field would be one of the fastest in history of the meet.

Drawings for the open all age and open puppy stakes were made Wednesday night at Stuttgart, 14 miles southwest of here. Drawings for the amateurs will be made there Thursday night.

Thomas Tops

UNIVERSITY, Ala.—(AP)—Frank Thomas, Alabama coach, is in his tenth year as a head grid mentor. His record is one of the country's best. Over the decade, his teams have won 77 games, lost 12, tied 4. In four years at Chattanooga, Thomas produced two title teams. In 1933 and 1934, at Alabama, his teams won the Southeastern conference crown.

ges, took the opposite view on the ground "Texans" sounded more distinctive. Both sides found ready converts, and debate has reached Homeric proportions.

Paul Would Hate to See Dizzy Go

Younger of Dean Brothers Says Dizzy Worth More Than $200,000

DALLAS, Texas.—(AP)—Paul (Daffy) Dean allows $200,000 is "considerable money," but he hates to think even that goodly sum would dissolve the "Paul and Paul" mound corporation.

Furthermore, Paul recklessly agreed to wager his winter headpiece that it would take more than $200,000 in cash to persuade the St. Louis Cardinals to part with Jerome Herman Dean.

"Diz is worth a lot more than $200,000 in cash to the Cards," said Daffy. "Mr. Breadon would never sell Diz for cash unless, of course, he could get the Cincinnati Reds to throw in Paul Derringer on the deal."

At St. Louis, Sam Breadon, president of the Redbirds, agreed. Cincinnati has offered $200,000 for Dean but has made no mention of sending along Derringer, their ace right-hander, with the check.

"Gosh I'd hate to be away from Diz," mused Daffy. "I don't know how I'd act. But if it's the best for him, I'm in favor of it. You can't tell—maybe I'll be traded."

Paul, who failed to finish the 1935 season because of an ailing pitching arm, added with grin:

"Or maybe I'll go at the waiver price!"

The younger Dean says his arm is "doing fine" and he hopes to be back on the Cardinal hurling staff with a normal throwing arm when spring training starts.

He reported he was not "doing anything special" to condition the arm, except "just being careful not to play golf or get out in this cold, wet weather—we've been having lately."

The huge right-hander weighs 205 pounds at present—some 15 pounds over his pitching weight. He promises, however, to be in top condition by spring.

Right now he is wrapped up in his home life.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dean expect Mr. Dean to drop around sometime after Christmas.

Davis and Gelbert Sold to Cincinnati

Cards' Catcher and Infielder Go to Reds in Cash Deal

MONTREAL—(AP)—Dizzy Dean still was in the St. Louis gas house gang Wednesday night but two of his mates, Charlie Gelbert and Catcher Virgil Davis, belonged to Cincinnati.

As smart baseball men began to bet even money on throwing baseballs for the Cardinals for years to come despite big money talk by Cincinnati and the New York Giants, Infielder Gelbert and the veteran Davis were sold to the Reds in a straight cash transaction.

"The deal was easily the highlight of a day of furious rumors and little business, which included the sale by the Chicago Cubs of the veteran outfielder, Eban Allen, to the St. Louis Browns."

The Boston Red Sox, skin flints as compared with last year, signed Catcher Johnny Peacock, who was lost to Cincinnati by a free agency ruling, for $8000 which Peacock stuffed into his own pocket.

The departure of Gelbert, who probably will be used by the Reds as trading material in another deal, removes another of the famous Cardinal world series heroes and ends his gallant fight to make good with his mates after suffering a serious injury to his leg in a hunting accident in 1932.

Gelbert was a hero in the campaigns and world series of 1930 and '31. A remarkable fielder and a deadly hitter in the pinches, he was one of the leading factors in the Cardinals' winning pennant drives.

He hit over .3000 average and was one of the most popular players in the game. In the 1930 series, he batted .353. Next year, he was a world series hero again though hitting but .261. His fielding plays and timely hits were largely responsible for the victory over the Athletics in '31.

Giants Offer $500

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Management of the New York Giants offers $500 for a home run hit over the fence at the Havana training camp next spring. The fence is 300 feet from home plate in all fields.

Enthusiasm High for Porker Game

Razorbacks Shift From Dry to Wet Plays on Weather Outlook

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Enthusiasm over the University of Arkansas-University of Texas centennial football classic here Saturday continues to mount Wednesday despite rainy weather and overcast skies.

D. Hodson Lewis, secretary of the Little Rock Chamber of Commerce said only 600 reserved seats remained to be sold in the 10,000 capacity Little Rock high school stadium. With favorable weather prevailing, he said, a record breaking crowd of 14,000 of 15,000 will pack the stands for the Southwest Conference gridiron finale.

Little Rock hotel officials reported they have been swamped with orders for reservations for both Friday and Saturday nights and they are preparing to handle overflow crowds on both nights.

Drill on Wet Plays

FAYETTEVILLE—(AP)—Prospects of a heavy field for their Saturday afternoon game with University of Texas caused the University of Arkansas to make a change in its offensive drills Wednesday.

The Razorbacks switched from dry day plays Wednesday afternoon and drilled for two hours on an offensive suited to wet playing.

"The Texas game is the most important in Arkansas history," Coach Thomsen said, "and we don't want any slip ups."

Ralph Rawlings, speedy halfback, continued his absence from the practice field and gave special treatment to injured leg muscles.

Linemen worked overtime Wednesday in an effort to iron out all kinks.

About 30 members of the Razorback squad are expected to make the trip to Little Rock, scene of the conflict. The squad will leave early Friday and will work out at the Little Rock high school stadium that afternoon.

The University of Arkansas band, headed by Drum Major Harry Crumpler will accompany the team to the capital city along with 500 members of the university ROTC. The ROTC will parade through the Little Rock business section at noon and on the field about 40 minutes before game time.

Drill Against Passes

AUSTIN, Texas.—(AP)—The University of Texas Longhorns, goaded by a desire to defeat Arkansas Saturday at Little Rock and lift themselves out of the Southwest Conference cellar, put in their final hard practice licks of the year Wednesday.

Darkness again halted the drill as Coach Jack Chevingny instructed the squad in defense against the overhead attack of the Razorbacks, final opponents of the season for the Steers.

Poultry Too Crowded

MANHATTAN, Kan.—(AP)—Poultry is too crowded in poultry houses on the average farm, a survey by Prof. L. F. Payne of the Kansas State College disclosed.

Payne said the survey showed the average floor space per bird is 2.3 square feet while the recommended space is four feet. Crowding poultry, he said, means lowering the efficiency of the flock and reducing profits.

Vandalism Is Foe of Highway Signs

Half of Highway Markers Are Stolen Before They Wear Out

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(AP)—How long should a road sign stay on the job? About five years if everyone would let it alone.

Chief Engineer Mortimer W. Smith, explaining what an important part a uniform sign system plays in the lives of motorists, has discovered that too many persons like to take highway markers home or something. He says: "Replacement of signs is frequently necessary, not so much because they naturally become obsolete as because of vandalism. An undisturbed sign should last for five or more years without replacement. It is probable that over half of the signs replaced are because of vandalism."

Worries of a Mailman

HOUSTON, Texas.—(AP)—Postmen here carry the mail under difficulties. Postmaster J. S. Griffith estimates one mail carrier a week is bitten by a dog. However, the mailman has his revenge. Griffith says postal regulations permit mail carriers to refuse to make deliveries to the owners of vicious dogs who fail to keep the animals tied.

Children's Growth Proceeds Unevenly

Girls Grow Fastest at 9, While Boys Begin at Age of 11

IOWA CITY, Iowa.—(AP)—Boys and girls see-saw up and down in their comparative heights during childhood years, says Bernice Boynton, university of Iowa researcher, and Dr. Howard Meredith.

The study, covering several thousand measurements over a 14-year period, shows that boys are taller than girls from three months to ten years and that from ten to fourteen years girls exceed boys in stature.

From fourteen years on, however, the boys again spout faster than girls. It was found that girls enter the period of adolescent acceleration in growth at about nine years of age while boys reach it at eleven years.

Texans, or Texians Stirs Hard Debate

Old Playbill of 1836 Calls It "Texians"—Many Object

AUSTIN, Texas.—(AP)—The letter "T" has split residents of the Lone Star state into two camps over whether they should be known as Texans or Texians.

The argument was revived recently after Mayor LaGuardia of New York sent Governor James V. Alfred an old playbill describing a program given January 7, 1836, in the American theater on the Bowery for the benefit of the "Texians."

Governor Alfred publicly suggested residents be referred to as "Texians." An El Paso attorney, Richard F. Bur-

A sequence of off-tackle plays that scored a touchdown for the Quakers in their 16-6 victory over Navy this year.

With the Middles drawn in, the ball was snapped to Kurlish, who faked giving it to Elverson, who had run to his left, behind the Penn fullback and continued in that direction as a decoy. Miller, Penn half to the left of the play, took out the opposing right end, who was allowed to charge in.

Frank Murray, Penn quarter, cut to the right to take out the opposing left end, who also was allowed to rush in. Kurlish continued around his right end for a touchdown march of 14 yards.

The secret of the play lay in two maneuvers—Penn had run a series of tackle smashes from it, and, just before the touchdown play, had scored with it from the 9-yard line, only to be called back and penalized five yards because of a man in motion. Running the same play confused the Middles, and it clicked to perfection with good blocking.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

World's Largest Church

More than 1600 years ago the Emperor Constantine built a small chapel over the old "circus" of Emperor Nero, in Rome, where St. Peter was believed to have been martyred. From the time of Charlemagne, in 800, great popes and kings were crowned there.

In the middle of the 15th century, a new structure was begun, and for more than 125 years building continued until the Basilica of St. Peter's, as it was known, became the largest church in the world. Most striking feature is the dome, designed by the famous artist Michelangelo. This marvel of architecture rests on four massive pillars, each 234 feet in circumference. The dome itself is 238 feet in diameter and rises to a height of 405 feet. Below it is the canopied high altar where the pope celebrates mass only on high holidays, and beneath this is the tomb of St. Peter.

Today, further improvement has been undertaken, to give St. Peter's a more magnificent approach. The stamp here pictures the dome on one of the three stamps issued by Italy in 1933.

Generosity Plus BLUE SPRINGS, Mo. — (AP) — Jay Fleenor, owner of a tourist camp here, made Enoch Arden look like a piker.

When Fleenor found his wife, to whom he had been wed 20 years, was in love with Jim Phelps, a farm youth, he helped Mrs. Fleenor get a divorce, bought a marriage license, paid a minister to marry the couple and gave the newlyweds $500.

The bridal pair departed and remained away many months. When they returned, Phelps was without work. So Fleenor gave him a job at the camp and provided a cottage as living quarters for the couple.

THREE STEPS IN POLLY'S HEALTH PROTECTION

With his stethoscope the doctor is listening to the sounds in Polly's lungs. He hears no strange nor suspicious noises that his ear is trained to recognize as symptoms of tuberculosis, but he is not satisfied with that method of diagnosis only. She is given a tuberculin test which will show whether tuberculosis germs have entered her body. Polly's "scratch" after two days became red and slightly swollen indicating that infection has occurred. She may have this first infection, however, without having the disease. To find out definitely if any harm is being done to her lungs the next important step will follow. "Take a deep breath and hold it!" and the magic X-ray has photographed Polly's lungs. Shadows on the X-ray plate reveal the disease in its early forms when a cure may be more easily effected. But no shadows on Polly's plate! What a relief to her and to her parents to know for certain that she is a healthy little girl! Christmas Seals help support these three steps that protect the health of thousands of boys and girls throughout the country. Christmas Seals are sold between Thanksgiving and Christmas to fight tuberculosis.

Constance Bennett Greets the Press

A.P. Correspondent Interviews Most Haughty of the Movie Stars

By Robbin Coons

Associated Press Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD—Snugly fitted with bullet-proof vest, hat will and testament made, and a "To Salmagundi" on his lips, your reporter timidly invaded the big white house that is the lair of that beautiful and haughty ogress of Hollywood legend: Miss Constance Bennett.

The Marquise de la Falaise de la Coudraye's relations with "the press" in the past have been notably lacking in cordiality. So it was that the sign guarding the front door, arrowing "Trade Entrance" around the driveway, seemed rather pointed. But we who are about to die (this was my muttering) must die nobly. Front of nothing.

It's a nice liar. You get an impression of formal period things and luxuriously thick beige rugs as the maid escorts you to the more practical, darkish and red-leatherish playroom. And presently—

She's Cordia Today

But what's this? Today, at least, La Marquise is just Constance Bennett. She is in white tennis shorts and sweater, and she looks rather like a golden lollipop, thin figure topped by shining golden mane. Sweet as candy, too—but not fulsomely sweet.

It seems Connie is having a little private tennis tournament today. Just Gary and Sandra Cooper, Foulke Warwick, a few others.

Connie thinks all the tennis she's playing is making her look as if she were gaining weight, even if she isn't.

"I eat enough for seven men," she says. "And I never gain an ounce. My legs will always be like sticks."

This is rank defamation, but let it pass. . . . Connie is talking about "Gone With the Wind" now, in superlatives. She did a broadcast of a scene from it. She got quite a few letters about it, but intimates she does not consider herself seriously in the running for the role of Scarlett in the film, although she is testing. She isn't sure she could be quite the type. Her hair, for one thing.

To Keep On Acting

And now, down to business: Once

Dogs Are Guards for Executioner

Threats against his life have become so numerous that Rich Owen, executioner at Oklahoma state prison, has built a strong fence around his McAlister home and keeps two savage bulldogs on guard. Owen, shown here with his ferocious sentinels, has pulled the switch at more than 50 executions.

upon a time Connie Bennett said she would retire "in five years" didn't she? Well, it isn't so. Woman's prerogative, and besides—there's always business.

High taxes eat into earnings, and apart from that Constance Bennett has to do things. She tried idleness for five years when she was first married—the first time—and she had enough of it.

Even now she is forming her own production company. She will appear in her picture "as long as the public will stand it" and then she will work at producing with other stars.

Although the bulk of tung oil comes from the Orient, Texas is experimenting in growing the trees, product of which is the most powerful drying oil known.

Rebel Attack on Madrid Resumed

Airplanes Bomb Capital as Infantry Spreads Around City Again

By the Associated Press

Insurgent airplanes bombed Madrid twice Thursday in rapid succession.

The Fascists pressed their drive to capture the capital through an encircling movement. Artillery and machine-gun fire, punctuated by the thrum of trench mortars and hand grenades, were heard from rapidly spreading fronts around the city.

Socialist militiamen encircled Villa-real, in the northern Bay of Biscay sector, and pressed within striking distance of the insurgent provincial capital of Vitoria.

Four hundred peasants are homeless and receiving state aid following a fire which destroyed the entire village of Tolomen in northern Asia Minor.

The agricultural department says the average 1936 cotton picking wage of 69 cents was an increase of 11 cents over 1935 and 19 cents over 1934.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisons waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

If the 10 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They keep you happy and will help the 10 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.
